 Question in advance of Expediton ***

Dear friends, We are preparing our Maldives Isl. DXpedition 2010 (March 24th - 31th see: www.mmmmonvhf.de/latest.php?id=2896).
We need to make the decision on what antenna we will use on 144.
We definitely want to use one single cross-yagi. We would like to use the experience of other DXpeditions and home-stations: Does anyone have experience with the 2MXP28 and/or the 32JXX2? Is there any other antenna (with such performance, size and weight) you would recommend? Please send us your comments and suggestions!
Many thanks! vy 73 Dan, HB9CRQ/KT6Q head of HB9Q www.hb9q.ch

 OH 50 & 70 MHz News ***

All Finnish coastal areas are now free for 50 MHz operations
(there were forbidden areas due to former Swedish CH2-TV activity)
The big news is that as of today 70 MHz is released as legal for transmitting. The Finnish Communications Regulatory Authority (FICORA) [<http://www.ficora.fi/en/index.html>] will release the new regulatory document 6H/2009M on the Finnish/Swedish web pages tomorrow (11-05) ---- 73, "Zaba" OH1ZAA/OHoMZA ---

5N0EME is QRT. Even so I will stay until end of November in Nigeria, I wont do EME anymore. I will now have to pack everything in boxes and make them ready for shipping back to Switzerland. Last weekend I could log quite some new station but would have wished to find better condx. However, I am happy with the result. I am really sorry for some guys that didnt make it in the log. DD0VF for example called me really often but either he didnt copy me or I didnt copy him or the PA died. A last log and overview over all use: www.mmmonvhf.de/upload-news/DL8EBW/LOGS/5N0EME.xls HB9Q, PA3CSG and UA3PTW made a QSO with me on all three bands, really good job guys. I updated the log and also the QSL status. There are quite some QSLs on the way. I gave them yesterday to a colleague who will put them in Germany in the mail. Rest of the QSL cards can be answered when I am back in Switzerland beginning of December. vy 73 de Bodo, 5N0EME - www.mmmonvhf.de/review.php SOURCE: Bodo, 5N00CH (5N0EME) direct to MMonVHF

LATEST Update from PI9CAM team, dated 2009-11-04:
See: http://www.pa0ply.nl/arrrl_eme_2009.htm Antennas for 13,9 and 6cm has been mounted all in a row now, thanks to Eene PA3CEG Jan PA3FXB Software for tracking has been modified to run off track for each frequency band. We will install Rf decks on friday and hope to be QRV from moonrise. Check for us on HB9Q during this event. Basically we will follow the tradition of 13cm the first pass and 9cm and 6cm for the second pass. However we can change easily and will do on request Good luck and hope to see you off the moon! OK1RD is now QRV with his new 6m array:

<http://www.ok1rd.com/index.php?article=33&page=6m-eme>
Because of his full elevation capability, Jarda should be able to work many 6m single yagi stations who have a single yagi on the horizon-only with no elevation. Anybody out there still need OK on 6m? ;-) GL SOURCE: tnx to Lance, W7GJ direct to MMonVHF

C9 EME Trip in early December 2009
LATEST NEWS from Derek, Z55Y, dated 2009-11-02: There will be no 23cm or 70cm operation from C9 in December I don't have yagis nor power for these bands. With only about 50w on both, it will make QSO's take very long. There will be more operations from there in the future, maybe then I can make a plan for high gain yagis and more power. 73s SOURCE: Derek, Z55Y, via MoonNet
